That Brings You.

We should be slow merchants if we let ourselves be misunderstood.

Our clothing is the cheapest because it is the best.

It looks better. It wears better. It costs less money because of its long service. We can't help ourselves.

We antagonize unreliable Clothing because the facts compel us. What is the one fact that weighs with you? Spending less money to get the best. We don't say that nobody else sells good Cloth-we say—Wanamaker's sells no other sort. We are frank. Frankness is fairness to you.

Better than any imperative announcement! The Spring Suits, both in design and workmanship, are competent to win a great trade for us. Pick out blindfolded your Suit, if you like. It'll please you.

Decide whether you want to pay for a silk-lined or not silk-lined Spring Oversack. The rest is right. The fit, the style—these are as good as if you got a tailor at one for yourself.

Our fair prices will clinch your choice.

cial Cablegram to the Post-Dispatch

LONDON, April 25.-Gladstone's direct atts on Hartington on the occasion of the budget bate, gives great satisfaction to the Liberal leader's followers. The Tory papers exult over the triumph of the Government and the ged discomfiture of Gladstone, not seeing least likely to secure the support of the Unionists, who hold the balance of power. His real object was to identify Hartington and his party with an anti-popular system of taxaof Gladstone's animated manner he feit weary and went home before the division, after sea return, showing the instances of such increase in the last six years, by way of showing this to be a recent departure of the judges, presumably in obedience to the instructions of the Government.

THE LIBERALS AND JOHN BRIGHT.

The Liberals, after great forbearance with their old leader, John Bright, have reluctantly come to the conclusion that he has changed his convictions and the name of the John Bright Club of Paddington, has been changed to the Paddington Radical Club. A number of other clubs named after him are considering the advisability of a similar course.

THE FOPE AND IRELAND.

Rumors that the Pope proposes to intervene in Irish affairs in behalf of the British Government are again current, this time through the Times correspondent at Vienna. The Times correspondent at Rome appears to hear less of the doings of the Vatican than his colleague at Vienna. Nothing is known of the matter in government circles here. In any case, it will not effect the Irish question. Every prominent Parnellite who happens to be a Catholic has expressly declared that he recognized only the spiritual authority of the Pope.

THE ARMY ESTIMATES.

The commistee of the House of Commons on the army estimates yesterday examined the Duke of Cambridge, who derlared that II,000 more men are required to make the British Army efficient. The Duke places the figure much lower, it will be seen, than continental critics. He admitted that extravaguace prevails, but attempted to show that the responsibility for it rests not on himself, but on the Secretary of War. He alleged, however, that whereas the British Allegon.

"LITTLE LORD FAINTLEROY."

The case of Warne vs. Seebohm, concerning the unauthorized dramatic version of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," was concluded yesterday. Judge Stirling reserved judgment, which is awaited with much interest. If favorable to them, the plaintiffs claim that American novelists henceforth will be able not only to secure a copyright on their works in England, but also a monopoly of the right of dramatization.

London, April 25.—At the banquet given to Sir John Pender by his friends and members and representatives of the leading telegraph and cable companies in the Hotel Metropole to mark his elevation to the dignity of Rnight Commander of St. Michael and St. George, an honor recently conferred upon him by Her Majesty the Queen, a portrait of Sir John was presented to Lady Pender. The Rt. Hon. Earl of Derby occupied the chair. On his right was the guest of the evening. Count Bylandt, Lord Wolseley, Marquis of Tweeddale, Earl Galloway, Lord Hamilton, Count Piper and the Dean of Westminster, the Postmaster-General and many other notabilities were present. The company numbered over two hundred. Lord Wolseley responded to the toast of the Army. After alinding to the many services which Sir John Pender had done for the army, he said it was no easy matter for an officer holding the public position which he did in the War Office to speak in an open manner about that branch of the service. He thought, however, that he was justified in saying that at no previous period in our military history was the army in a more efficient condition than at present. Sir Leopoid Heath replied for the Navy and Lord Bury for the reserve forces.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 25.—John S. Pon-tier, detective-sergeant of the Baltimore pogeon was head book-keeper for Hursh, Burnell & Co., the largest wholesale dry goods establishment in Baltimore. His peculations, extending over a period of four years, amounted to about $15,000. His downfall was caused by high living and an endeavor to support a wife much beyond his means. She is a daughter of J. L. Hammon, a retired manufacturer of Baltimore, and had been raised in a most extravagant manner. Whitney, or Spurgeon, did not possess the courage to deny her most unreasonable wants and became a criminal to satify her vanity. Detective Pontier leaves to-night with the prisoner for the East.

After receiving the congratulations of their Mrs. McCarthy left for the North, where they fall, when they will be at home to their friends

The second upon the list was that of Mr George Barton, formerly of this city, now re-siding at Kansas City, to Miss Parnela Harrison, grand-daughter of Mrs. James C. Way of this city. The ceremony was performed at son, grand-daugnter of Mrs. James C. way of this city. The ceremony was performed at high noon to-day at the Methodist Church at Glasgow, Mo., in the presence of a throng of relatives and friends, Rev. Dr. Carr W. Pritchett officiating, and was followed by a large reception at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Harrison. A special car filled with wedding guests from this city went up this morning. Among them were Mrs. James C. Way, Mrs. Julius Livingstone, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harrison and Miss Dora Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. Steedman, Dr. and Mrs. Lete, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. A. Fritchie, sister of the groom, and others. The church in which the ceremony was celebrated was elaborately and beautifuly decked with plants and flowers. The bride wore a beautiful robe of white corded silk with long princess train and garniture of fine lace. Her only ornaments were the exqisite pearl ornaments presented by her grandmother. Her wedding vell was confined to her hair by pearl pins. The bride maids' Miss Dora Harrison, Minnie Price and Hereford of Glasgow, all wore beautiful wedding gowns and carried roses in they hands. The groom's best man was Mr. Clark Way Harrison. Mr. and Mrs. Barton will leave this evening for California for a wedding journey, and on re-turn will go at once to Kansas City, the home alifornia for a wedding journey, and on re-urn will go at once to Kansas City, the home f the groom.

Meara-Luthey. The third wedding of the day was that o iss Hattle Luthey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Luthey, to Mr. John G. Meara. The ceremony was performed at 2:30 o'clock by Rev'. Dr. Matthews of the Centenary M. E. Church, at the family residence, No. 1705 Lafayette avenue, and was followed by an elegant reception from 4 to 6 o'clock, after which the happy pair will leave for New York, to be absent until the 17th, when they will return and be at home to their friends at 1705 Lafayette avenue.

The handsome home was gaily decked with flowers everywhere, foliage plants grouped about the halls, the fire-places banked with palms and ferns, the mantel-pleces glowing with tulips and hyacinths and spring flowers of gorgeous hues embedded in ferns and filling the air with perfume. The bride wore a beautiful wedding gown of cream faille, with long square train over a jupe of the faille, thickly crusted with pearls in squares and from the center of each square a pendant of lilies of the valley. The corsage wes cut in deep points over the shoulders and overlaid with duchess lace; demi-sleeves finished with the lace. She wore no ornaments save the diamond brooch and ear-rings presented by the groom and carried in her hand a bunch of illies of the valley. Over all fell the fleecy folds of tulle, which formed the bridal vell.

The first bridemaid, Miss J. Lee Johnson, a cousin of the bride, wore cream faille, made dancing length, and self draped; the long-pointed corsage cut a la modjeska and filled with duchess lace, demi sleeves fulshed with the lace and met by long gloves. She wore diamonds, a brooch and ear-rings, and carried a large bunch of bon silene roses.

The fourth wedding of the day was that of

Mr. James T. Drummond, the well-known to-bacco manufacturer, to Miss Josephine Hazard. The ceremony was quietly performed at 3 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Holland at St. George's Church. The ushers of the occasion were Mr. David Tunnel, nephew of the groom, and Dr. Kingsberry, the nephew of the bride. These two gentlemen led the bride cortege, followed by Messrs. Will Hazard and Minck Hazard, brothers of the bride, the latter gentleman giving her away. The bride entered leaning upon the arm of the groom, and looked very handsome in her elegant bridal robe of white moire antique, made with a very long Princess train, falling in deep plain pleats from the waist line, and finished with a heavy cord and balyeuse of lace. Across the front were drawn two scarfs of the moire finished with fulfy balls of silk and loosely knotted upon the tablier. The side plaits were shirred over the hips and fell in fan plaits to the bottom of the skirt. The corsage was made high with with deep points back and front and laced down the back, the vest front formed of narrow pleats. Her only ornaments were diamond solitaires, and in her hand she carried a bunch of carnations and roses. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired at once to the residence of the groom, No. 3631 Delmar avenue, where there was a family reunion, and a superb dinner was served by Beers from to 6 o'clock, with covers laid for forty guests, a number of them having arrived this morning from Alton, where Mr. Drummond served as Mayor for eight years.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Drummond will leave in a special car for Chicago; thence they go to Washington City and from there go South, returning to St. Louis about the 1st of June, and will be at home to their friends at their residence. No. 3631 Delmar avenue, Temm-Langley.

At 5:30 o'clock the fifth wedding will occur, that of Miss M. A. Langley to Mr. J. A. Temm.

The ceremony will be performed at St. Nicholas' Church by Rev. Father Schaeffers.

Baltimore, Md., April 25.—Nearly five pages and Agricultural Commissioners of the Southern States, upon the financial condition of the farming interests of the South and the general progress of that section. In every case the for many years, and proof of this is given in the great decrease in the number and amount of morayes and to proof of this is given in the great decrease in the number and amount of mortgages and crop liens. Farmers are less in debt than at any timesince the war, and are buying more liberally of improved labor-saving agricultural implements. In Alabama, Gov. Seay and Mr. R. F. Kolb, Commissioner of Agricultura, unter in reporting a decrease ments in buildings, tences, etc. In Arkansas, Florida and the Carolinas the same report of increasing prosperity is made.

Hon. S.A. Jonas, writing of Mississippi, which is a fair sample, says: "There has never been a time since the war when Mississippi farmers were as nearly out of debt as at present. There is not to-day one farm mortgage where there were twenty ten years ago, and, in fact, it may be confidently asserted that the small farmers are in many parts of the State almost entirely free from debt. The crop of 1887 paid tens of thousands of our farmers out of debt and left them in splendid condition to enter upon the new year."

The growth of the South in other lines is shown by an increase from 1880 to 1887 of $977,000,000 in the assessed value of property, notwithstanding the fact that an immense amount of property, including railroads, new factories, etc., is exempt from taxes and hence is not included in these figures. During the same time there was an interesse of 15 % whiles of values of called on the control of the same time there was an interesse and hence is not included in these figures.

Depew had been treated discourteously at the dinner of the St. George Society at Delmonico's Monday night, where he was an invited guest. It was reported that Mr. Depew had been hissed for eulogyzing Gladstone in responding to a toast.
The deduction was made that this harsh treatment was a reward for Mr. Depew's defense of the Irish in opposing Prof. Goldwin Smith's condemnation of home rule.
Edward F. Beddall, President of St. George Society, said to a reporter: "There was no emborrasment to Mr. Depew at our dinner. condemnation of home rule.

Edward F. Beddall, President of St. George Society, said to a reporter: "There was no embafrassment to Mr. Depew at our dinner last night and no discourtesy was shown him. We all deplore that an incident so insignificant as not to have excited any attention or comment at the time should have been so magnified by the newspapers. Mr. Depew was a welcome guest at our dinner, as he has been for many years. In denying that there was any discrimination against Englishmen in this country, Mr. Depew said that if John Bright should come here he would receive an enthusiastic reception on account of the kind words spoken of the United States during the civil war. The same was true of Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Depew continued, whom he spoke of as a greater statesman than Mr. Bright. Thereupon a very prominent English gentleman, a very strong adherent of Mr. Gladstone, sprang to his feet and waving his napkin, cheered, and others joined in with him. This provoked some of the other members to manifest their disapproval. It is true that there was some hissing, but it soon passed away, and no one considered that it was meant for Mr. Depew."

HE small concern situated diagonally across the street, knowing little about the manufacture of clothing, and dimly comprehending the natural laws of trade, wonders why, when it buys its Clothing of different Eastern firms and pays the jobber's profit on it, then putting it on its tables with another heavy profit added—which must be put on to cover the very large expenses of a not very large business—it cannot compete with a large firm like ours, that manufactured last year, mostly for its retail stores in Philadelphia, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee and Kansas City, nearly FIVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS' worth of Clothing—a firm with all the advantages that large capital, long experience and abundant resources give. To the average business mind there is no mystery about it. The small concern thinks it can cover up the defects in its own business system by much silly abuse in its advertising, and misrepresentation of the business methods of a large firm like ours, that has done so much to elevate the style and lower the price of Ready-Made Clothing in St. Louis and five other large cities of the Union. And yet, strange to say, if a few of the defects in the business methods of the "small concern" are mentioned, the "small concern" don't seem to relish it. But more of this in our next.

the stage—there is matrimony. Before next season commences the Lily's name will be changed from Mrs. Langity to Mrs. Gebhardt. It has been an open secret for some time among the latimate friends of the actress that very shortly after the present season closes the ceremony, which will unite the English beauty to her young and rich American admirer will occur. A member of her company, during her engagement here, told of the plan under confidence. Mr. Gebhardt is rich and the Lily by her success. It is a melodrama by Frank Harvey, the author of "Wages of Sin" and "Woman Against Woman." Arrangements have been made with the olympic Theater management by Mr. Roberts, who is in advance of the company, to produce the play in the elaborate style which marked that is, she will not tour through the country again, although she may appear for short engagements in New York City, Boston and one or two other Eastern cities.

A traveler in Hindostan, writing of the customs of the country, states that in the theaters there is a gong which is used to indicate to the audience ween to laugh and when to appland. Two strokes of the gong means that it is time to appland and four strokes that it is time to appland and four strokes that it is time to appland and four strokes that it is time to appland and four strokes that it is time to laugh. If there is any one thing that American managers, playwrights and actors are pining for it is the applanae and laughter gong. It is altogether the cieverest idea in dramatic business that has yet been discovered. Every one knows how utterly painful it is for a camedian to get of a "gag" and have it met with a silient solemnity so deep and profound that it can be shoveled out of the theater, and every one knows how unpleasant it is for an author to sit in a hox and have what he considers a splendid situation pass without a hand. It is also a matter of general knowledge how painful to a manager the lack of applause and laughter is on a first night. Sometimes it happens that through an entire piece the audience is really unable to discover the funny points and the bright points and a hint from the author as to what he intended to be funny or to be fine would be appreciated. The value of such an arrangement to the American stage increases in one's estimation would be a blessing which would turn unplaced comedians into funny men and failures into brilliant successes at the nod of the managers might attempt, would be barred.

Berry & Ber

The ups and downs of theatrical life and ard beginnings of the men and women who acceed on the stage was never more apty illustrated than in the case of Pat Reilly, who a now at the head of one of the most successful variety organizations on the road, which was at the Standard recently.

Some years ago an ignorant little boosblack and gamin hung around the City Hail pavements, in Philadelphia, in front of the old State-house. He picked up a precarious living by "shibase" and selling papers, but he was preternaturally aged and very shrewd. By some means or other he picked up a knowledge of drawing, which, combined with natural shilling hapers. ing with wonderful skill, the city and National Legislators. By means of his sketches he made a direct play for stray nickles, and in-creased the number of his customers. Many a pat on the head he received accompanied with a dime of a quarter as ecomiums upon his cari-catures.

a dime of a quarter as ecomiums upon his caricatures.

About this time the famous Haggerty was being tried for murder in the neighboring Court-house. Haggerty was daring and desperate, and while his trial was in progress he suddendly leaped from a court-room window to the flagstones below, a distance of about thirty feet. Young Pat Reilly, the gamin artist, was at work on a flagstone below touching up an etude in pastel. When the escaping prisoner struck the pavement he made a rush across Chestnut street, upsetting Pat upon his way and rubbing out, with an unappreciative foot, the result of the boy's labors. The boy dropped his chalks and followed the man as he made a bolt through the American House. When the police hurriedly followed Pat was able to indicate the prisoner's avenue of escape to such effect that the murderer was canght, taken back to the court-room and subsequently sentenced.

The bootblack artist's sphere soon became effect that the murderer was caught, taxen back to the court-room and subsequently sentenced.

The bootblack artist's sphere soon became to limited; he thought he could command more money without so much hard work. He therefore soon forced his way upon the variety stage, where he made a name for himself as a song and dance artist and a lightning caricaturist. His caricatures have appeared in the leading humorous periodicals, and at one time he purchased and ran an illustrated weekly in Michigan. This venture failed, leaving him several thousands of dollars out, and he again took to the variety stage.

There will be something of a novelty at the Levy concerts at the Grand the last two nights of this week in the shape of Miss Edith Pond, the singing reader. Miss Pond reads to the accompaniment of the piano in what may be called a recitative style, and she is said to be

"It would no doubt be premature to ask for your final decision?"

"Yes, altogether. I have written the committee already what I thought of the call, and I have come te look over the field simply in justice to the church."

Mr. Dixon was born in Shelby, Cleveland Co., N. C., in 1854, and is consequently but 33 years of age. He entered Wake Forest College, Morth Carolina, at the age of 18 and graduated valedictorian in 1874. After completing his theological course at the Louisville Theological Seminary he was called to the floorishing church at Norfolk, Va., but decilined it, preferring to take the church at Asheville, N. C. He remained there several years. In 1862, at the age of 28, he was elected to the presidency of his aims mater, which is now one of the leading colleges of the South. He declined this distinguished honor, and entered the field in Beitimore in November of that year, taking charge of a young colony of fifty members just organized into a church. In the five years he has been in Baltimore the colony of fifty members has grown into a church of 380, with the largest Baptist congregation in the city. It is the importance of this work he himself has built up that makes him hesitate about giving it up to st. Louis.

A PAMILY OF PREACHERS.

His family is one of preachers. His father, Rev. Thomas Dixon, Sr., is an active preacher in Cleveland County, N. C., and his brother Thomas, ten years his junior, who has been but eighteen months in the ministry, is already paster of the big Dudley Street Baptist Church in Boston. A younger brother still has just entered the ministry, too. If any men in the family have escaped the impress of Haptist doctrines they have not been heard from. Those who look for Mr. Dixon to cast his lot with St. Louis base their anticipations on the fact that he would as pastor of the most powerful Baptist church in the Southwest be far more of a power for good than he could be stowed away in Baltimore under the sha

The meeting of the Trades Display Association yesterday resulted, as stated in the Post-Disparce, in the abandonment of the parade for this year. The money in the treasury—about il.,600—was turned over to the illumimating committee. The warehouse will be immediately vacasted and the owners of property now stored there will be notified to take their stuff away by Saturday of next week. The organization of the Trades Display Association will not be abandoned, as upon that foundation some other enterprise may spring next year.

the grand Sunday-school May festival at the Fair Grounds May 19, so often described in the Post-Dispatch. President John S. Moffitt presided and read a glowing prospectus of the concern that set the audience on fire. According to it there will be 30,600 children on the grounds and 20,600 adults. The singing children will be massed on the track in front of the grand stand and there render their programme. Postlewsite's band of thirty pieces will be engaged for the occasion. There will be avaried programme of athletic exercises, under charge of the Y. M. C. A. Athletic Association, but each Sunday-school will have charge of its own amusements. Owing to the dauger to the little ones no boats will be used on the lake. A battery of artillery will give the signal for assembling at the graunds. The matter of the sale of beer on the grounds was arranged by the House of Public Comfort being bought off for 2200. It was announced that there would be plenty of lee water. Tickets are to be bought by the superintendents of the various schools and sold to the scholars. Each school will have to charter cars. Children under 12 will be carried for 5 cents, over 12 for 16 cents. These flekets will admit to the grounds. Tickets at the gate will cost 16 and 25 cents; single rigs. 25 cents; doubles. 30. Badges are to be furnished the scholars. The expenses, which will be about $1,500, will be met by receipts at the gate and by the sale of refreshment booth privileges. Director Lindsay will have the music ready by May 2. Before adjourning Mr. S. C. Lewis, the Outlook Committee, paid a tribute to the Post-Disparch for the Sunday-school statistics published in the issue of the 18th. Fair Grounds May 19, so often described in the POST-DISPATCH. The importance of purifying the blood can not be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health. At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and eurich the blood, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is worthy your confidence. It is peculiar in that it strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. Give it a trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists.

CYCLORAMA BUILDING.

Washington Av. and Thirteenth St.

TO THE PUBLIC—The second Battle of Bull Run is on exhibition in this building. As so much has been said in the press and by politicians on the stump about this panorams that is not true, but is misleading, I am instructed by its owners to make the following statement:

A company, composed of well-known citizens of Chicago, of which Gen. John M. Schofield, Gen. John L. Beveridge, Gen. Wm. E. Strong, Gen. Chas. Fitz Simons, Gen. Chas. Tompkins. Capt. A. T. Andreas and Hon. S. Corning Judd were Directors, had this painted and put up in Washington, D.C., where it has been for more than two years, and there met with a success only second to one other ever exhibited.

The report that it was originated and erected by Confederates is not true.

The report that it was originated and erected by confederates is not true.

That its principal patrons were Confederates is also not true. Aside from a few politicians who wanted to make political capital, none refused to visit it because it represented a Confederate victory.

That Gen. Logan, although a personal friend of every Director, opposed it is true, but this opposition was because as Gen. Fitz John Porter had been dismissed from the service for not obeying orders in this battle, his command should not have such prominence in the panorama as is given it. The position was selected because it gave a good view of all the ground on which the first and second battles of Bull Run were fought, and of Gen. Lee and staff and Gen. Longstreet and the position of Gen. Stonewall Jackson, as well as the positions of all the Federal troops.

Many Grand Army Posts did protest against a Federal defeat being put on exhibition at the Capital of the nation. The Grand Army Posts of Washington appointed a committee to investigate the matter, and the chairman, Col. Lincoln, reported that there was nothing in the picture that cast any reflection on the Union arms, but on the contrary showed the Federal advance to be the most gallant conceivable. The Loyal Legion and the Grand Army participated at the opening, and Gen Burdette, the Grand Commander then of the G.A. R., made a speech eulogizing in the highest terms the fair way in which both sides had been treated by the artists. This panorama was intended to give a realistic idea of how one of the greatest battles of history was fought, and for that purpose only.

and owning the principal stock yards, were able to dictate their terms to the stockmen on the one hand and the butchers on the other. The consequence is that neither class are making any money, while the owners of the dressed beef establishments are rapidly growing enormously wealthy. The singular state of affairs was presented of beef being shipped on the hoof from Texas to Kansas City, and sent back dressed to the Exas towns. When a Texas butcher undertook to buy beef directly from the producer it was an easy matter for the dressed beef establishments to undersell him, drive him out of the business, and then by increased prices more than recover their losses. In this way the butchers were obliged to buy from the great slaughtering, houses, who put their own price on beef, and now have the entire community at their mercy. The letter was addressed to the hayor, and was written on a yellow sheet cent's Asylum. The letter was acutesed the hayor, and was written on a yellow sheet of unglazed paper with a pencil. It was badly written, the spelling was wretched and the sentences were badly formed. It was punctuated solely with brackets. It purported to be from "Celeste Lindsay," and was to the effect that the writer, though sane, had been placed in the asylum by a brother who wanted to obtain possession of her property. Sne was placed there on February 28, she wrote, but the letter bore date of February 18 or 18, yet it was not found until a week ago, though lying in a conspicuous place when found. The letter was brought to the Post-Dispatch first about a week ago, and a reporter was sent out to investigate. It was found there was no person bearing the name given in the asylum and there was no women on the side of the house where the letter was a found. It was concluded that the letter was a hoax and no attempt was made to use it. The letter was returned to the finder. After keeping it several days he turned it over to the Mayor. The sisters at St. Vincent's said, when the Post-Dispatch reporter called, that there was absolutely no foundation for a story in the matter.

ing terms during the last three weeks. The Crown Prince has reproached his mother in violent language in consequence of her having cleaned out the room at Charlottenburg in which Queen Louise died. The room has been regarded as a sacred place and has been kept exactly as the heroic Queen left it for nearly eighty years. It appears that the Empress meddled with it in the Course of the preparations for the reception of the Queen (her mother) and it is impossible to acquit her of a grave indiscretion and of a most extraord in any want of taste and good feeling. Considering that Empress Victoria is really a clever woman, the mistakes she has committed since her return to Berlin are perfectly aston ishing. She has made no moves but false ones, both in great things and in small. One cannot but wonder that the Empress is unpopular at Berlin when one hears that the work of redecorating and furnishing the right wing of the palace of Charlottenburg has been intrusted by her to a London tradesman, as if there were not a single establishment in Berlin capable of undertaking it.

THE GRAND PACIFICATOR.

THE GRAND PACIFICATOR.

The Grand Duke of Baden has been the grand pacificator at Berlin during the past month. He has negotiated between the Empress and the Crown Prince, and between Her Majesty and the Chancellor, and it is mainly owing to his interference, which has been marked throughout by great tact, earnestness and good feeling, that Emperor Frederick has been able to arrange his private affairs to his entire satisfaction. The Grand Duchess of Baden will uitimately inherit nearly a million and a haif sterling from her father and mother, as well as the beautiful Schloss and Park of Babelsburg, near Potsdam. This huge fortune was intended for the late Prince Ludwig of Baden, but the bulk of it will now pass to the Crown Princess of Sweden on the death of her parents, as the hereditary Prince of Baden is very rich, thanks to his marriage with Princess Hilda of Nassau, and he does not need assistance.

A Royel Preogramme. There ought to be an open-air meeting advertised to take place every Sunday by every branch of the National League in Ireland. There would be no difficulty whatever about this. The leaguers, that is the whole population, all go to mass. After mass there is nothing to prevent them from slipping into the nearest field and holding their meeting. The hour and the place of meeting, the resolutions of the name of the chairment and the local speakers should all be advertised in the most public way possible. The only thing that should not be advertised is the name of the "great gun" from London or Dublin invited to take part in the meeting. This should be kept a profound secret, and for the plain reason that the Government, which cannot by any possibility suppress all the meetings, won't know which to put down and which to let alone.
